Fife Development Plan Scheme - 2018 (Tenth Edition)
What is a Development Plan Scheme?

The Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act 1997 (as amended by the Planning etc (Scotland) Act 2006) and the Town and Country Planning (Development Planning) (Scotland) Regulations 2008, require planning authorities to prepare a Development Plan Scheme each year.

This is the tenth edition of the Fife Development Plan Scheme and includes:

- information and timescales about the development plan for Fife
- current information on supplementary guidance, development frameworks and development briefs (Table 1)
- a participation statement, which describes the opportunities for public consultation and Fife Council’s proposals for public involvement in the preparation of the plans.

What is a Development Plan?

The planning system in Scotland is led by development plans which, together with national planning policy guidance, form the basis for making planning decisions.

The Fife Development Plan consists of the recently adopted Local Development Plan (FIFEplan), and the approved Strategic Development Plans of TAYplan and SESplan.

Decisions on where and how development will take place in Scotland are influenced at three levels:

- The National Planning Framework for Scotland;
- Strategic Development Plans; and
- Local Development Plans.

The Scottish Government are currently undertaking a review of the planning system. Proposals for change were set out in a consultation paper ‘Places, people and planning’ published in January 2017. This was followed by a position statement published in June 2017. The Planning (Scotland) Bill was introduced to Parliament on 4 December 2017. The first stage of parliamentary scrutiny concluded in May 2018 and the second stage commenced in September 2018.

National Planning Framework 3 (NPF3) was published by the Scottish Government in 2014. It sets out a strategy for the long term development of Scotland’s towns, cities and countryside and is concerned with how they will develop over the next 20 to 25 years. NPF3 makes reference to a number of national projects in Fife, including the completion of the Queensferry Crossing, freight handling facilities and additional freight capacity at Rosyth and the Fife Energy Corridor extending from Methil to Longannet.

Strategic Development Plans (SDPs) operate for the four city regions in Scotland (Glasgow, Edinburgh, Aberdeen and Dundee). Fife lies within both the Edinburgh city region (SESplan) and Dundee city region (TAYplan) SDP areas. The plans focus on the key land use and development issues that cross the planning authority boundaries. The strategic development plan areas covering Fife are shown in Figure 1.

Local Development Plans (LDPs) provide site specific and detailed policies which guide the day-to-day decisions made on planning applications. They should implement SDP requirements on a site specific basis over a ten year period. The Government expects that LDPs will be succinct documents and concentrate on key policies and proposals. LDPs should be adopted within two years of the approval of a relevant SDP.

We have called the Local Development Plan “FIFEplan” to give it a Fife identity as it spans the strategic development plan areas of SESplan to the south and TAYplan to the north.
Local Development Plan Preparation

The programme for the preparation of the Local Development Plan follows a number of key stages:

1. Publish Development Plan Scheme
2. Main Issues Report & Monitoring Statement
   (includes preferred options and alternative proposals for development and seeking views of organisations and individuals)
3. Proposed Local Development Plan
   (a stronger view of proposed development locations proposed by the Council, informed by the consultation responses at the previous stage)
4. Examination
   (independent examination of proposed plan and issues raised in representations)
5. Adoption
   (includes modifications made following examination)

Action Programme

The first Action Programme for FIFEplan was published in February 2018. The Action Programme identifies what is required to implement FIFEplan and deliver its proposals, the expected timescales, and who is responsible. The Action Programme shows the linkages between development and the delivery of infrastructure, and helps to coordinate activity in identifying priorities and funding. When the actions required to facilitate the proposed projects are identified at an early stage, this gives confidence to developers, stakeholders and funders. Throughout the preparation of the plan, Fife Council has maintained close partnerships with Council Departments, Key Agencies, the Scottish Government and other organisations.

The Action Programme will be regularly monitored and updated with information from stakeholders, and regular audits such as the Fife Housing Land Audit. The Action Programme will be prepared to a timetable which allows for relevant updates to be taken into account in the Council’s budget setting and in updates to the Fife’s Community Plan (Local Outcome Improvement Plan).

1 Key agencies are: Scottish Enterprise, the Scottish Environment Protection Agency, Scottish Natural Heritage, Scottish Water, the regional transport partnerships SESTran and TACTran, and Fife Health Board; Government agencies (Architecture & Design Scotland, Forestry Commission Scotland, Historic Environment Scotland, Marine Scotland and Transport Scotland) are also part of the key agencies group.

TAYplan and SESplan Strategic Development Plans

The Scottish Government’s review of the planning system is examining the future of Strategic Development Plans. The consultation paper ‘Places, people and planning’ published in January 2017 proposed removing Strategic Development Plans from the planning system in future.

TAYplan’s second Strategic Development Plan was approved in October 2017.

The Examination of the Proposed Plan for SESplan’s second Strategic Development Plan concluded on 20 July 2018 with the publication of the Examination Report. The Report has been submitted to the Scottish Ministers, who will now review its content. A decision on the approval of the Plan is expected in Autumn 2018.

Reflecting the contents of the Planning Bill currently before parliament, the TAYplan and SESplan authorities have not programmed any replacement of the Strategic Development Plans beyond 2018.

FIFEplan

FIFEplan (Fife’s Local Development Plan) was adopted on 21 September 2017. A summary of the FIFEplan key dates and programme are provided in Figure 2. The FIFEplan Main Issues Report (MIR) was consulted upon between January and March 2013. Between December 2013 and February 2014 Fife Council undertook an additional consultation seeking views on a proposed spatial strategy, preferred new sites and reasonable alternatives. The Proposed Plan consultation ran from October till December 2014. A total of 3,930 representations were received to the Proposed Plan. These representations, and Fife Council’s responses to them, were submitted alongside the Proposed Plan to the Scottish Government for Examination on 7 August 2015.

The examination of the Proposed Local Development Plan started on 29 September 2015. The Examination Report was published by the Scottish Government’s Planning and Environmental Appeals Division in November 2016.

The modifications arising from the reporters’ recommendations were accepted by the Fife Council’s Executive Committee on 28 February 2017 where it was agreed that the Local Development Plan should proceed towards adoption.

The modifications and the updated FIFEplan were submitted to Scottish Ministers on 24 March. After a period of consideration by Scottish Ministers Fife Council adopted FIFEplan in September 2017.

FIFEplan 2

FIFEplan 2 is programmed to be adopted within 5 years of the current adopted plan.

We will aim to minimise the length of the plan preparation process by focussing on the key changes that have occurred since FIFEplan 1, and by making efficiency savings identified through continual lessons learned and LEAN process management.
FIFEplan Local Development Plan

FIFEplan is framed by national and regional policy set by the National Planning Framework and the two Strategic Development Plans. Other strategic policies and Fife Council corporate objectives also shape the land use strategy as illustrated below.

Community Planning

Community Planning is how public bodies work together and with the community in each council area to make life better for people. The Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015 aims to help communities to do more for themselves and have more say in decisions that affect them. Fife’s Local Outcome Improvement Plan ‘Plan 4 Fife’ was published in April 2018 as Fife’s new Community Plan. Local Community Plans for each of Fife’s 7 local committee areas are due to be produced by the end of 2018. Neighbourhood Plans are also being developed for targeted areas. Collectively these plans will help to identify priorities when we review the Local Development Plan.
Supplementary Guidance

The main purpose of supplementary guidance is to help applicants understand what planning authorities expect in relation to planning applications.

Supplementary guidance prepared in connection with a Strategic Development Plan or Local Development Plan, subject to meeting consultation requirements, forms part of the Development Plan and is referred to in this document as statutory supplementary guidance.

After consultation in 2017 Making Fife’s Places Supplementary Guidance (connected with the recently adopted FIFEplan) was approved in August 2018, followed by Affordable Housing and Minerals Supplementary Guidance in October 2018.

Consultation on Draft Low Carbon Fife guidance took place over Summer 2018. This guidance is intended to be approved by the end of 2018.

Consultation also took place on Supplementary Guidance for Planning Obligations during 2017. However, this has not progressed to adoption.

Non-statutory Planning Obligations guidance from 2015 and 2017 is currently being used whilst Fife Council considers options for taking forward statutory Supplementary Guidance.

Consultation on draft Supplementary Guidance for Houses in Multiple Occupation is due to take place in early 2019.

The Council will also continue to use existing non-statutory guidance listed in this Development Plan Scheme and will prepare other guidance on a range of planning matters as required. A full list of current and proposed Fife Council planning guidance is included in Table 1.

The role of supplementary guidance is under review as part of the Scottish Government’s planning review.

Participation Statement

In preparation for the Examination of the now adopted FIFEplan, DPEA Reporters examined the extent to which the consultation and public involvement arrangements for the plan conformed to the participation statement included in the Fife Development Plan Scheme (2013).

In doing so Reporters considered Fife Council’s Report of Conformity with the Participation Statement (June 2015). The Reporters concluded that ‘the council has conformed with its participation statement and has in many cases exceeded minimum consultation requirements with regard to consultation and the involvement of the public at large as envisaged by Scottish Ministers’.

It remains an ongoing commitment to develop our engagement strategies to continue the interaction with communities, key agencies, and other stakeholders as an integral part of the development plan process.

The Scottish Government expects engagement with the public to occur from the earliest stages in the planning process to enable community views to be reflected in plans and development proposals.

Minimum requirements for consultation and engagement in the planning system are set out in legislation. The methods used by the Council are also based on the principles set by the Scottish Government in PAN3/2010 Community Engagement.

Examples of focussing on seeking views of communities in the early stages of plan preparation included an additional participation stage before the Main Issues Report called Community Matters. This was an open call to community groups and organisations to submit ideas for their communities, helping us to identify what matters were important to these communities and reflect issues raised in the Main Issues Report.

We engage with Fife’s Community Councils from the outset of the process. Fife’s planning service established a Community Council Focus group in November 2015 following an open event held in August 2015. All Community Councils were invited to attend this event to raise any issues and concerns to help shape future improvements led by the planning team, and an action plan was drawn up after the event. Fife Council’s planning service continues to hold regular events to further improve relationships and communication with Community Councils. The most recent Community Council event was held on 26 September 2016 and two further training sessions are programmed for November 2018.
The Fife LDP webpage (www.fifedirect.org.uk/fifeplan) is the main channel to communicate news and information. Social networking is increasingly being used to raise awareness of development plan work and to reach a broader range of Fife’s population.

- Regular tweets go out through Twitter to over 1,356 followers.

- Important news or events are advertised through the corporate Fife Council Facebook account.

- Development Plan e-mail bulletins are issued on a regular basis to 1,311 readers. We also have a LinkedIn group to help facilitate networking and the exchange of ideas with others in the planning profession.

Fife Council exceeds Development Plan Regulations in notifying owners and occupiers of sites potentially affected by development. Neighbours who are within 30m of a FIFEplan development proposal likely to significantly affect their amenity are notified rather than the 20m set out in the 2008 Regulations. Increasingly communication is happening online. Our online consultation facility is now established as the main consultation forum for development planning and supplementary guidance and will continue to be further developed.

Officers from Fife Council’s development plan and area services teams took part in SP=EED training provided by Planning Aid Scotland, alongside members of local community group CLEAR Buckhaven. SP=EED (Successful Planning = Effective Engagement and Delivery) was developed by Planning Aid Scotland to enable effective engagement in placemaking.

Future Consultation Methods

The following pages set out detail on the publicity and engagement that has been undertaken at each stage of the first FIFEplan. This provides an indication of future consultation arrangements however, these will depend on the outcomes of the current planning review.
