BORROWING? OR STEALING?

If you’re concerned an adult is at risk of harm, it’s right to have it checked out.
Find out how to take action inside.

The Adult Support and Protection (Scotland) Act 2007 defines an ‘adult at risk of harm’ as someone who is:

- unable to safeguard their own well-being, property, rights or other interests and
- affected by a disability, disorder, illness or infirmity and therefore more vulnerable.

Fife Adult Protection
www.fifedirect.org.uk/adultprotection
Adult Protection Phone Line
01383 602200

Seen something? Say something.
For more information visit actagainstharm.org

actagainstharm.org
If you thought a child was at risk of harm, you’d do something about it. It should be no different for an adult. If your instinct tells you something isn’t right, don’t keep it to yourself.

With one email or anonymous phone call to Social Work, the situation you’re worried about will be checked out and support given, if needed. It may be nothing, but there’s no harm in being sure.

For your local contact details, visit actagainstharm.org

It’s not always easy to tell if an adult at risk of harm is in trouble. But there are situations to be aware of. Above all, trust your instincts – if something feels wrong, say something.

If you think an adult is at risk of harm and may need help, call Social Work to share your concerns. For your local contact details, visit actagainstharm.org